VOTES CHALLENGED IN UNION ELECTION

More than 500 ballots in the vote for a union to represent the faculty are being challenged by all parties involved, including the CSU. In the count Tuesday in Sacramento, the United Professors of California led the Congress of Faculty Associations with 6,473 to 6,454 votes. This run-off election follows the February voting in which both unions received 42 percent of the ballots, with 16 percent of the faculty choosing no representation.

The challenged ballots will now be subject to negotiations. PERB has set a June 3 date for a meeting to discuss the issues. Negotiations can take up to two years.

Academic support personnel voted 486 to 414, with 11 votes challenged, to be represented by the United Professors of California. In the run-off election for health care support, CSEA won the right to represent the Health Center personnel by a vote of 120 to 69.

HEREDITY'S ROLE IN CRIME IS TOPIC OF FREE LECTURE

Are some people predisposed to crime because of heredity? Dr. Sarnoff A. Mednick, a researcher in the genetic factors in criminal behavior, has been investigating the possibility that biology, rather than environment, is a cause of criminal action. In a free lecture titled "Biological Factors in Antisocial Behavior," Dr. Mednick will speak at 8 p.m., Wednesday, in the Student Union.

The lecture is designed to be of interest to professionals in the fields of crime control and education and to the general public. Dr. David Shichor (Sociology) is arranging Dr. Mednick's visit. Dr. Mednick is professor of psychology at USC and director of the Psykologisk Institute at Kommunehospitalet in Copenhagen. A leading authority in research on biological factors in antisocial behavior, he has authored and coauthored more than 60 articles, chapters and books on this subject. The author-researcher earned his Ph.D. from Northwestern University and his medical degree from the University of Copenhagen.

TRUSTEES TO CONSIDER CHANCELLOR CANDIDATES

REDUCED WORK TIME PROGRAM APPROVED

The Chancellor's Office has issued CSU policy and regulations establishing a reduced work time program, and the college has established procedures implementing that program for all employees other than academic teaching employees. Reduced work time means working less than full-time and taking a pro rata reduction in salary and benefits.

Options available to employees include working fewer hours per day, fewer hours or days per pay period or fewer days per year. All full-time non-teaching employees, except public safety officers, are able to request participation in the program. Participation will not be feasible for employees who are in supervisory or managerial positions.

The college will not solicit employee participation in the reduced work-time program unless the Chancellor's Office contemplates a budget reduction of 1% or more and the reduced work time would save jobs through redistribution of the work load.

The complete description of the reduced work-time program is on file in the Personnel Office.
